EDUCATION

Ph.D. (1999), M.A. (1994), B.A. (1991), Sociology, SUNY-Stony Brook

PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

Assistant Director of the Program on Survey Research, Institute for Quantitative Social Science
Preceptor for Survey Research, Department of Government
Harvard University, Cambridge, MA

January 2010 – present

This faculty position has two main components: teaching survey methodology and election-focused courses in the Government Department (cross-listed at the Kennedy School), and running the day-to-day operations of the Program on Survey Research. Courses taught include: Survey Research Design, Election Polling and Public Opinion, and Polling and Democracy in America. (For my spring 2010 offering, I was a recipient of the Harvard University Certificate of Teaching Excellence.) PSR is a research-support unit providing individual consultation and workshops on all aspects of survey design to faculty, staff and students across the various schools of Harvard. Additionally, PSR sponsors an annual conference; the 2010 conference focused on survey experiments including presentations by Thomas M. Guterbock (University of Virginia), James H. Kuklinski (University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign), James N. Druckman (Northwestern University) and Jeremy Freese (Northwestern University). (For the full program, see <http://psr.iq.harvard.edu/event/psr-conference-survey-experiments>.)

Consultant

Langer Research Associates, New York, NY

September 2010 – November 2010, September 2011 – present

For the 2010 midterm elections and the current election cycle, represent ABC News (via Langer Research Associates) on the National Election Pool (NEP) Exit Poll Questionnaire Committee – charged with designing the content for the national exit polls. Also, participate at the analysis desk of ABC News on election nights, and contribute to the network's preparation for election coverage.

Consultant

Harvard School of Public Health, Cambridge, MA

July 2011 – present

Provide detailed questionnaire review and evaluation for health and healthcare surveys from the HSPH.

Consultant

Center on Medicine as a Profession, Columbia University, New York, NY

Provide periodic methodological support and consulting for the Center on Medicine as a Profession. Most recently contributed to a project about conflicts of interest, disclosure and transparency standards at academic medical centers and in medical journals. The project ultimately yielded two peer-reviewed publications: one in the Archives of Internal Medicine (published online September 2010, in print January 2011) and the other in Academic Medicine (published online January 2011, in print March 2011).

Senior Polling Analyst

ABC News, New York, NY

January 2007 – December 2009

At ABC News, helped design and analyze national and state-level ABC News/Washington Post polls and the network's award-winning "Where Things Stand" surveys in Iraq and Afghanistan; deeply involved in ABC's pre-election polling in the 2008 presidential election and at the analysis desk during election night; supplied original poll analyses for ABCNews.com; vetted external research for the network's news platforms; produced multivariate regression modeling of ABC polling data; tracked developments in the field of public opinion research; recruited and managed election staff and interns.

Assistant Professor (tenure track) – Department of Sociology and Anthropology
Fordham University, New York, NY
September 2002 – December 2006

Research, teaching and service were the three broad areas of work for faculty. Research primarily focused on program evaluations of New York City emergency mental health services (mobile crisis teams throughout the five boroughs as well as post-9/11 Project Liberty counseling). Teaching ranged across a variety of substantive areas: Public Opinion, Social Statistics, Research Methods, Sociology of Medicine, Urban Sociology, Honors Social Science, Inequality in America, Contemporary Social Issues and Policies, and Introduction to Sociology. Advising students was also considered part of the teaching load: freshmen, majors, tutorials, internships, Social Science and Honors College senior theses. Service to the university required contributing on a number of committees at the department, college and university levels: Ph.D. and M.A. Comprehensive Exams; Middle States and Self-Study; Graduate Curriculum; Hiring; Merit; Inter-University Program Advisory; Arts and Sciences Council Curriculum; Interdisciplinary Social Science Program; College Council; Grade Grievances and Appeals; Interim Director, Interdisciplinary Social Science Program.

Visiting Assistant Professor – Department of Sociology and Anthropology
Fordham University, New York, NY
September 2001 – May 2002

This one-year teaching position required the following courses: Graduate Statistics, Public Opinion, Undergraduate Statistics, Sociology of Education, Contemporary Social Issues, Introduction to Sociology.

National Institute of Mental Health Postdoctoral Fellow

Institute for Health, Health Care Policy, and Aging Research, Rutgers University, New Brunswick, NJ
September 1999 – May 2001

Projects included a study of the diffusion of antiretroviral treatments among New Jersey Medicaid beneficiaries with AIDS, and an examination of the impact of media coverage of mental illness on public opinion about the efficacy of mental health treatment and government spending on mental health care.

Principal Investigator, NIMH Dissertation Research Grant

Department of Sociology, State University of New York at Stony Brook, Stony Brook, NY
September 1997 – May 1999

The dissertation was a secondary analysis of data from the National Health Interview Survey (from 1987 to 1995) focusing on AIDS knowledge gaps within the U.S. population over time. Other analyses considered the impact of Earvin “Magic” Johnson’s HIV disclosure on national AIDS knowledge and the relationship between AIDS knowledge and knowledge of other diseases (i.e., health “belief systems”).
